Dear Sir:

I support Microsoft in its attempt to innovate. Microsoft has probably done more to move this country forward than any other company. Their attempt to be a leader has caused other companies to take notice and because they haven't been as successful they cry foul. Microsoft Corp. should be an example for other companies. No matter what Microsoft does to settle this lawsuit people are not happy. These people, especially the schools, are in it for the money. I would suggest finding some real criminals to bring to justice and leave Microsoft alone and free to innovate.
